George Winspeare, 13, respectable-looking lad, was charged at Mansion House with embezzling £21 5s. 8d.—Prisoner gave himself up on the charge, and it was ascertained that he had received the money on the 11th inst., in payment of an account due to his employers, Messrs. Herbert and Mobbs, stationers, Bucklersbury, in whose service he had been for a short time only.—Sergt. Brown stated that the police had been looking for prisoner for the last 4 months. Two years ago prisoner was bound over to come up for sentence for embezzlement, and for the last 12 or 13 months he had been going about London calling upon doctors, solicitors, and others, and representing that his father had been previously in business with a Dr. Hine, whose address he gave, but that since his father's death his family had been

REDUCED GREATLY IN CIRCUMSTANCES, and that he (prisoner) had been sent by Dr. Hine to the particular person he was calling upon, in the hope that he would be able to give him employment. On being told that there was no opening for him, the prisoner pleaded his destitute condition, and that he had no money to carry him back to his home at Forest Gate. He lived in the Burgoyne-rd., Bow. In this way he had defrauded all kinds of people, including the governor of the Bank of England. On one occasion he walked down to St. Albans, where he told a similar tale to the representatives of Sir F. Mox, and they gave him money. Prisoner had had 7 situations, but he never stopped longer than 3 months anywhere.—Ald. Savory (to prisoner): Your career up to the present time has been one of fraud. You seem to have done everything you possibly could to impose upon other people. In order to give you a chance of retrieving your character, I shall send you on board the ship Cornwall for 3 years.

SURVEYOR IN TROUBLE.
Alexander Andrade, surveyor, &c., of Hatton Garden, where, he was said to be residing, was charged with having surrendered to his bail at Westminster to answer to a charge of defrauding a widow named Gerrish of the sum of £25.—Prosecutrix's late husband carried on a butcher's business at Walton-st., Chelsea, and she last she employed a prisoner to dispose of it. In her information she deposed that she paid him £25 in bank notes for the purpose of discharging a liability she had incurred to a wholesale firm. The money so obtained, it was alleged, was used by the prisoner to pay off a bill on the same firm, and the present time his landlord was pressing for.—Mr. Wilson, who appeared for accused, said that since the remand the £25 had been paid to the wholesale firm. Prosecutrix was now willing to withdraw.—The magistrate said he would not sanction the charge being withdrawn.—A poorly-dressed man at this stage stepped into the witness-box, and said that prisoner had defrauded him of £22 over the sale of a business.—Mr. De Rutzen: This man had better make an information. I will again remand prisoner on bail, and the case will be sent to the public Prosecutor to see what action he will take.

CRICKET FIELD FATALITY.
At Potter's Bar village, teams representing the Enfield police, and the villagers were about to play their annual match, and 3 of the Potter's Bar men, Robert Finch, Alfred Bennett, and John Willmot, went into the field to have a little preliminary single-wicket practice, Finch taking the bat, Bennett the bowling, and Willmot striking down, and his 2 companions ran to bring off a catch, but in their eagerness they came into violent collision, and Willmot's head struck Bennett under the chin. The force of the impact was such that both men came to the ground with a crash, and neither was able to get up. Artificial respiration was tried, and various other remedies were applied, with the result that Willmot, whose nose and mouth were bleeding, and his face badly contused, came round after a time, and was able to walk home with a friend. The case of Finch, however, did not revive, and Dr. Fowler, who was hurriedly summoned, found that his neck had been broken by the shock of the collision, and that he must have been instantly killed. The unfortunate man, who was a gardener, was 32, and leaves a widow and one child.

At Liverpool Assizes, John Donnelly was sentenced to 16 years' penal servitude for the manslaughter of Robert Devine, whom he fatally stabbed in a quarrel.

An injunction was applied for against the nuisance caused to the dwellers in Purbeck Gardens by the cab rank at Earl's Court Exhibition. Justice Kekewich said he could not do anything.

London is no place for snakes. It is hard to find a pair of individuals turning up in all sorts of queer places and as a natural sequence they get a speedy death. How they get in such situations is generally a matter of mystery, unless, as in the case of those which periodically invade the houses in the suburbs, they escape from a naturalist's shop. One week one about 2ft. in length, its appearance in Lysander G. Upper Holloway, where it was turbed from the quiet solitude and enjoyment of the drawing-room of a bachelor, was the only one of the kind that the householder had ever seen. The house having called in what assistance he thought was necessary, a baker and milkman) and having invoked a blessing, commenced tilities. Being aided by fortune in a small force, after an encounter of some duration, he vanquished the foe with sundry sticks, an air gun and a dart. As a memento of this

I understand that among those who will take part in the forthcoming rehearsals of "Cymbeline" at the Lyceum is Mr. F. Robinson and also Sir Henry Irving, who last year made a tour of the Lyceum company in the United States. Mr. Robinson, I presume, is the actor that name who gained his early experience at Sadler's Wells. Phelps. Of late years his efforts have been best known in the United States. In "Cymbeline" sure to be of value, for those who trained in the old school of actors were specially conversant with the Shakespearean traditions.

known Harehoun Fishery, at some 2 miles from the banks of the Colne. The water is one of the kind near London, and is stocked with fish of all kinds, a grand acquisition, as it is reached at small cost from Baker's Euston, and is just the water for all-round angling. Central Angling privilege ticket holders can at any time, and all information may be obtained at the Hotel, Harehoun, or at the Bankman's pending particulars, which will immediately be issued.

It says something for this that a party of 9 anglers, chiefly members of the Central Committee, their skill upon it on Sunday last had good fish, and Messrs. Mallows, Watkins, both of the Anchor and

Some flannel shrinks less than sorts need not be disputed, but very good many men would like to acquaintance with is a flannel does not shrink at all. The story has been put into my head by a young man from the South Africa, who makes the true complaint that the flannel shirts with which he was supplied by an outfitter before he left England have dwindled down to size. "I can no longer button the neck or wrists, the bottom of the tails are ascending toward the waist in a truly remarkable manner."

Black and white seems to gain more than lose in favour as a fashion combination. Some very smart frocks are being made of black and white. This particular make is very dressy looking, and is especially suitable for the winter, as the black that may be chosen for hat and gloves will go well with it. Sometimes a little touch of colour is introduced with advantage in the bodice, lining, hems, this needs careful handling, for if it is done wrongly the effect of the costume will be destroyed.

I saw this idea charmingly carried out in a stylish gown (see sketch); black ground is covered with a conventional pattern in round and curved lines of white; the skirt is cut in the prevailing style, short and to clear the ground, and modestly wide at the foot; the waist full

A peculiar machine appeared at Herne Hill on July 25. It was mounted obviously built with the object of reducing the length as much as possible. By an unusual method attaching the frame the rear rider enabled it to sit directly over the axle of the back wheel, which was so placed that front one is the back wheel to the single safety. A very funny appearance was presented by bicyclists who rode the mount. Of course, there is one disadvantage about it at once that effectually counterbalances the advantage of lessening lack of length. The rider who sits immediately above the wheels has to sustain more weight than the man behind him, more than the one mounted before or beside its axle.

The old man Wood, who serves parish of Mile-end for a generation is now past work, has been offered the job by the vestry as flag-carrier for the steam roller at £1 a week.

SATURDAY'S SPORTS OF THE PEOPLE.

CRICKET.

SURREY V. YORKSHIRE.

(For Lord's match.)

Despite the fact that the position of the game at the drawing of stumps on Friday at the Oval left scarcely a doubt as to the result, Yorkshire being 200 behind with 11 wickets to fall, the ground yesterday had a splendid attendance, over 30,000 people being present, and the match being fully 11,000 present. The benefit to George Lohmann, Surrey's star batsman, of a huge sum, and the famous Surrey professional, who has been rewarded for his long and valuable services to the county, yesterday had not entirely recovered himself, the bowlers being unable to get a little work on, it was much better than before, but still the Yorkshiremen never looked like saving the day. Surrey were the better team, and they deserved a double as they had badly bruised his hand on Friday. Yorkshire finished off their innings for 172, and followed on against a majority of Surrey's bowlers, but they were not so good as they had been, and despite some good batting by Denton and Peel, 6 men were out by lunch time for 92. Afterwards Ernest Smith gave a magnificent display of batting, scoring 55 in a little over 40 minutes, by 9.4, 2's, 4's, and 4 singles, but his efforts came too late, and the side were all out for 208. Surrey being left victorious by an innings and 61 runs. Though they deserve a good deal of credit for their success, the Surrey men had all the best of the luck, the rain of Thursday night completely altering the conditions for Yorkshire.
